24 October Josh Nall (HPS, Cambridge)
‘A trip to Mars by aeroplane’: genres of public astronomy and the practice of astrophysics in the fin de siècle

In 1901, visitors to Buffalo’s Pan-American Exposition were able to take a journey into space. Trips aboard the airship Luna were made by ‘a combination of electrical mechanism and scenic and lighting effects ... to produce the sensation of leaving the Earth and flying through space amidst stars, comets and planets’. Although easily dismissed as mere popular spectacle, I will argue that after 1870 emergent forms of mass media – ranging from the material culture of public expositions to newspapers, globes, magic lantern lectures, encyclopaedias, and mass-circulation periodicals and books – were integral to the development and success of a new type of imaginative astronomical practice. In the wake of fierce contests over the use and validity of new experimental astrophysical techniques in the science, this imaginative, publically-oriented astronomy was posited by some as a viable solution to the discipline’s growing crisis of identity. By exploring the wide variety of media that made this new, contested knowledge travel, I will show how practitioners both for and against imaginative astronomy engaged with genres of public science as part of their work to forge rival identities for themselves and their competing sub-disciplines. The paper suggests that the general strictures of astronomy’s cultural marketplace – the resources and constraints this public sphere provided – were embedded within, and therefore constitutive of, debates over the practice of this ‘new astronomy’.

31 October David Teplow (UCLA)
A California Yankee in King Arthur’s Court (with apologies to Mark Twain), or why a molecular neurobiologist landed in HPS

It is obvious that to study the history or philosophy of science, science itself must first exist. It is much less obvious to many, and especially to students, that to ‘do science’ optimally requires an equally deep grounding in the history and philosophy of science. What applies to students applies no less, and possibly even more, to professors in the natural sciences. In this seminar, I discuss the clinical and scientific history of Alzheimer’s disease, with special reference to controversies that have arisen from one of the most common and insidious errors of scientific practice, misassumption. Misassumptions will be exemplified through the consideration of a priori bias and inappropriate adherence to dogma. Examples of Kuhn-like paradigm shifts will be discussed. Concluding remarks will address the current state-of-the-art in Alzheimer’s disease research and offer suggestions for facilitating progress towards a cure.

7 November John Doris (Washington University in St Louis)
Talking to our selves: reflection, scepticism and agency

In philosophy, agents are often distinguished by a propensity for reflection – conscious and self-conscious mentation effecting control of behaviour. In psychology, quantities of research on parallel processing suggest that the philosophical conception of agency is empirically inadequate; much human behaviour is not consciously controlled, and is evaluatively incongruent with the deliverances of reflection. A psychologically lifelike conception of agency will therefore de-emphasize reflection; instead, the forms of self-direction marked with the honorific morally responsible agency emerge in the social dialogue by which humans regulate their behaviour.
Causal assessment is the problem of establishing whether a relation between (variable) X and (variable) Y is causal. This problem, to be sure, is widespread across the sciences. According to the ‘received view’, invariance under intervention provides the crucial test to decide whether X causes Y. This account of invariance has been criticised, among other reasons, because it makes manipulations on the putative causal factors fundamental. Consequently, the account is ill suited to those contexts where manipulations are not performed, for instance the social sciences. In this talk, I explain why stability is an important feature of causal relations (in social contexts and elsewhere). I then discuss how to extend the received account of invariance, in a way that manipulations on the putative causal factors are not methodologically fundamental, and yet invariance remains key for causal assessment.

Love and sex were concepts prevalent in botanical writing well before Erasmus Darwin composed his Love of the Plants. Here I focus on the Greek and Roman tradition of plant love. While the Greeks and Romans were completely ignorant of what we now recognise as the principles of plant sexuality and pollination, they used sexual vocabulary in their description of plants. Some of the passages where this imagery is used are well known: in particular passages relating to the reproduction of the fig and the palm trees. I want to cast my net wider and show that love rather than sex is the prevalent concept in ancient botany. For beside sexual lust, ancient plants felt maternal love, filial love, hatred and friendship. I will show that this anthropomorphism in the description of plant relationships has various roots: some to be found in philosophy (where the concepts of sympathy and antipathy are important); some in poetry; some even in economic thought. My sources will be varied, ranging from the classic History of Plants of Theophrastus (fourth century BCE), to less well-known astro-botanical texts, and passing by the poems on grafting by Columella (first century CE) and Palladius (fifth century CE).

In 1964, the Mattachine Society of New York – then one of the United States’ largest groups advocating for the public understanding of homosexuals – found itself under pressure to address the issue of venereal disease (VD). Amid nationwide concern that VD rates had been increasing steadily for a number of years, several reports highlighted the seemingly new and prominent role of homosexual men in the spread of sexually transmitted infections, particularly syphilis. At a time when homosexual relations were still penalized by law and many gay men were deeply uneasy about co-operating with public authorities, the New York Mattachine Society collaborated with the city’s health department to publish an informational leaflet, entitled ‘VD is no camp’, which was aimed specifically at this group. This presentation will examine the delicate navigations undertaken by members of the Mattachine Society to produce and distribute its leaflet. It will contrast the organisation’s collaboration with the city’s health department, on the one hand, with the suspicion of public health authorities advocated by its Californian contemporaries on the other. The presentation’s focus on these debates will highlight the need to complicate a conventional historical periodization which implies that VD did not emerge as a serious concern for men having sex with men until the 1970s. Finally, by tracing the leaflet’s circulation beyond US borders, the presentation suggests that a transnational framework may be important when analyzing responses to VD during the middle decades of the twentieth century.
Cabinet of Natural History

This research seminar is concerned with all aspects of the history of natural history and the field and environmental sciences. Seminars are held on Mondays at 1pm in Seminar Room 1. You are welcome to bring your lunch with you.

Organised by Natalie Lawrence.

14 October  Scott Mandelbrote (History, Cambridge)
The illustration and publication of Robert Morison’s History of Plants (1672–99)

21 October  Kathryn Ticehurst (University of Sydney)

Research Topics and Resources Seminars

Seminars on research topics and resources in history and philosophy of the sciences and medicine, for all new graduate students, are held on Thursdays 10 & 17 October at 4pm in Seminar Room 2. Tea is available from 3.45pm in Seminar Room 1. All welcome.

Each seminar will consist of short informal talks introducing some basic topics and methodologies. The seminars are complemented by an online guide at www.hps.cam.ac.uk/research.

Organised by Anna Alexandrova and Hasok Chang.

10 October  Matthew Lane: Research skills training offered by the School of Humanities and Social Sciences
Patricia Fara: Scientific images
Jonathan Birch: Naturalistic philosophy
Nick Jardine: Brief overview of HPS research resources

17 October  Anna Alexandrova: Introduction to research resources for philosophers
Josh Nall and Seb Falk: Researching in the Whipple Museum
James Poskett: Global histories of science
Dmitriy Myelnikov: Researching the history of 20th-century biology
Early Medicine Seminars
Seminars are on Tuesdays from 5.00 to 6.30pm in Seminar Room 1. Tea and biscuits are available from 4.40pm. All welcome!
Organised by Lauren Kassell.

22 October  Gabriella Zuccolin (Open University)
Gendering Renaissance medicine: vicarious menstruation and anomalous bleeding

19 November  Mark Jenner (University of York)
Polite and excrement labour? Sanitary services in London c.1650–c.1830

History of Modern Medicine and Biology Seminars
Seminars are on Tuesdays from 5.00 to 6.30pm in Seminar Room 1. Tea and biscuits are available from 4.40pm. All welcome!
Organised by Nick Hopwood and Helen Curry.

8 October  Christoph Gradmann (University of Oslo)
Reinventing infectious disease: antibiotic resistance and drug development at the Bayer Company, 1940–1980

5 November  Christina Brandt (Ruhr University Bochum)
The ‘premature arrival of the future’: temporalities of cloning in 1970s life sciences and culture

Generation to Reproduction Seminars
These seminars, on Tuesdays from 5.00 to 6.30pm in Seminar Room 1, are funded by our Wellcome Trust strategic award in the history of medicine (www.reproduction.group.cam.ac.uk). Tea and biscuits are available from 4.40pm. All welcome!
Organised by Nick Hopwood and Lauren Kassell.

15 October  Lisa Smith (University of Saskatchewan)
The lived experience of fertility problems in the 18th century

12 November  Sandra Eder (University of Zurich)
The birth of gender: transforming sex at Johns Hopkins in the 1950s

Generation to Reproduction Reading Group
This group discusses pre-circulated papers, classics as well as our own work, in the area of our Wellcome Trust strategic award in the history of medicine (www.reproduction.group.cam.ac.uk). We also hold work-in-progress sessions.

This term’s meetings will be at 5.00–7.00pm (tea from 4.50) on Tuesdays 29 October and 26 November in Seminar Room 1.
CamPoS

CamPoS (Cambridge Philosophy of Science) is a network of academics and students working in the philosophy of science in various parts of Cambridge, including the Department of History and Philosophy of Science and the Faculty of Philosophy. For further details of the composition and activities of CamPoS, see www.camposgroup.org. The Wednesday afternoon seminar series features current research by CamPoS members as well as visitors to Cambridge and scholars based in nearby institutions. If you are interested in presenting in the series, please contact Christopher Clarke. If you have any queries or suggestions for other activities that CamPoS could undertake, please contact Huw Price, Jeremy Butterfield or Hasok Chang.

Seminars are held on Wednesdays, 1.00–2.30pm in Seminar Room 2.

Global Science

Science operates on a global stage, but this is not a recent phenomenon. Our research group explores the relationship between global history and science studies. Science here is broadly construed. Histories of natural knowledge, technology and medicine all fall under the remit of this group. By adopting this approach we look to invite discussion on the relationship between the politics of globalisation and the making of the very category of ‘science’. What counts as science is precisely the product of a series of uneven historical encounters. Often the transit of scientific material, from books to barometers, relied on the lopsided development of colonialism and global capitalism. We therefore hope to trace, not only the movement of science across borders, but also the limits of the apparent globalisation of scientific knowledge.

In 2013–2014 we bring together speakers from history, geography and anthropology. By drawing on academics from across disciplines, we offer a new base for the growing network of academics working on global histories of science.

Seminars are held on alternate Tuesdays, 12.00–2.00pm in Room SG1, Alison Richard Building, West Road. Organised by James Poskett, James Hall and others.

Graduate workshops and seminars

HPS History Workshop

Need help writing a tricky part of your argument? Need some fresh ideas and references? Or simply want to see how your early-career colleagues approach the writing process? The History Workshop is an informal setting to discuss our written works-in-progress on any area of the history of science, technology and medicine, and share feedback. A draft PhD chapter, article or conference paper will be circulated by email before each meeting. We’ll then discuss it together over tea and biscuits at 5pm on alternate Wednesdays in Seminar Room 1.

Contact Andreas Sommer or Seb Falk if you are interested in sharing your work in this forum, or would like to be added to the mailing list.

- 23 October Zina Ward (Philosophy, Cambridge)
  The changing face of Penfield’s homunculus

- 6 November Margaret Carlyle (HPS, Cambridge)
  Illustrating Enlightenment science: women at the margins in 18th-century France

- 20 November Allegra Fryxell (History, Cambridge)
  ‘The past which gnaws into the future’: figuring ‘time’ in late 19th-century philosophy and psychology

- 4 December Sophie Waring (HPS, Cambridge)
  Finding space to swing a pendulum: the Board of Longitude and 19th-century geodesy, weights and measures

HPS Philosophy Workshop

Would you like to get feedback on your work-in-progress in a friendly and supportive atmosphere? Texts will be circulated one week in advance and discussed over tea and biscuits in Seminar Room 1 on alternate Wednesdays, 5–6pm. Share a draft of your MPhil essay, PhD chapter, potential article, or any research-in-progress in the philosophy of science, broadly construed.

Organised by Toby Bryant.

Graduate Training

Training workshops for the Department’s graduate students and postdoctoral researchers are held throughout the academic year. Most, but not all, are on Fridays at 1pm.

The full programme is available at www.hps.cam.ac.uk/students/training.
Science in Print: Understanding Book Production from the Sixteenth to the Nineteenth Centuries

A series of five sessions led by Roger Gaskell, Anna Jones and Jim Secord on Tuesdays at 11am in the Whipple Library, starting on 5 November.

Understanding the book as a physical object is a vital complement to the study of its contents, helping to locate its economic and social context, its audience, and ultimately its historical significance. Using examples from the Whipple Library’s rare book collections and the University Library’s Historical Printing Collection, this workshop series will explore some bibliographical techniques to identify and describe the structure and production of printed material from the hand press (16th–18th centuries) and mechanized (19th century) periods. Particular attention will be given to illustration processes. Sessions will be organised thematically as follows, and can be attended individually, but participants will benefit from attending the whole series if possible:

5 November  Survey of the hand press period
12 November  Book production in the hand press period
19 November  Field trip to UL Historical Printing Room to see hand press in action*
26 November  Analysis of hand press period books
3 December  Nineteenth-century book production

This series is open to all (undergraduates, graduates and beyond). Please contact Anna Jones to register your interest as places may be limited to ensure all have full access to the examples.
* This session will take place in the Historical Printing Room at the University Library – booking compulsory.

Aims and Methods of Histories of the Sciences

A series of six workshops led by Nick Jardine on Mondays at 11am in Seminar Room 1, starting on 28 October.

These workshops are for discussion of the identity, aims, methods and problems of the history of science. In the first, NJ will give an overview of the formation of history of science as a discipline. In the second, we shall discuss problems of anachronism. Possible subsequent topics include ‘sociological approaches to the history of science’, ‘Big Pictures versus microhistories’, ‘histories of the circulation of scientific knowledge’, ‘the purposes of the history of science’. Suggestions for topics and readings will be welcome as will volunteers to introduce topics.
Reading and discussion groups

Nature and Culture Reading Group

Meetings will take place on Tuesdays, 1.00–2.00pm in Seminar Room 1. For further information contact Beth Hannon or Christopher Clarke.

Calculating People: A History and Philosophy of Social Science Reading Group

Social and Individual Agency in Epistemology

We will meet on Thursdays, 2pm–3.30pm in Seminar Room 1 on the dates listed below; additional meetings may be organised if there is interest. Organised by Hasok Chang and Anna Alexandrova.

10 October  Hasok Chang, ‘Philosophy of Scientific Practice: The Challenge of the Social’ (manuscript)

Twentieth Century Reading Group

The group discusses books and papers relating to the history and historiography of 20th-century science, technology and medicine, broadly construed. Readings can be found in advance in our Whipple Library box.

Meetings are every other Thursday from 1–2pm in the Lodge Seminar Room.

Organised by Dmitriy Myelnikov and Kathryn Schoefert.

17 October Introduced by Helen Curry
– Introduction
– Chapter 1, Cold War Game

31 October Introduced by Michael McGovern
– Introduction
– Chapter 2, The Black Art of Programming
– Optional: Chapter 4, Tower of Babel

14 November Introduced by Salim Al-Gailani
– Chapter 4, Trisomie vingt-et-un
– Chapter 5, Into the mainstream

28 November Introduced by Dmitriy Myelnikov
– Chapters TBC

Science and Literature Reading Group

We meet on Mondays from 7.30 to 9pm in the Godwin Room at Clare College (Old Court), Organised by Liz Smith (Darwin Correspondence Project), Esther Momcillovic (HPS) and Daniel Friesner (Science Museum). All welcome!

21 October Do objects exist when I am not perceiving them?
E.M. Forster, The Longest Journey (1907), Chapter 1
Ray Bradbury, ‘No particular night or morning’, in The Illustrated Man (1951)

18 November The birth of cyberpunk
Twentieth Century Think Tank

The Twentieth Century Think Tank (TCTT) offers broad coverage of 20th- and 21st-century topics in the history, philosophy and sociology of science, technology and medicine. The regular programme of papers and discussions takes place on Thursday (fortnightly) over lunch.

This term’s meetings take the form of a Postcolonial Science Reading Group.

Meetings are held every other Thursday, 1–2pm in Seminar Room 1. All welcome!

Organised by Noemi Tousignant, Branwyn Poleykett and John Manton.

10 October  Issues and approaches

24 October  Science as liberation

7 November  Science as hierarchy

21 November  Science as violence
Philosophy of Psychology Reading Group

Measurement and Mis-measurement in Psychology

We meet on Thursdays, 11am–12noon in Seminar Room 1. Organised by Riana Betzler.

10 October  Introduction to philosophy of psychology

17 October  Measurement in Psychology 1

24 October  Measurement in Psychology 2

31 October  Psychometrics

7 November  Measuring Difficult Things: Empathy

14 November  Measuring Difficult Things: Wisdom

21 November  Mis-measurement: Replication issues in social psychology
And some relevant popular press articles about the issue:
Kahneman’s open letter: A proposal to deal with questions about priming effects.

28 November  Mis-measurement: Fallacies in perception research
CamPhor (Phenomenology) Reading Group

This reading group examines the use of Phenomenology and Phenomenological tools within contemporary philosophy, with a particular emphasis on Phenomenology’s relevance to debates within the philosophy of science.

In Michaelmas Term, we will be reading work by John Haugeland, predominantly those essays collected in his posthumously published book Dasein Disclosed (edited by Joseph Rouse). The primary focus of this term’s readings will be how Haugeland’s existential conception of ‘understanding’ illuminates issues within the philosophy of science. At the same time however, the group aims at a greater understanding of this philosopher’s contribution to a rapprochement between phenomenology and contemporary analytic philosophy.

Photocopies of the relevant chapters can be made available by request.

Meetings are every Friday from 12–1pm in Seminar Room 1. You are welcome to bring your lunch with you. Organised by Andrew Buskell.

Readings from:

18 October   Haugeland J. ‘Two Dogmas of Rationalism’, available online

8 November   Haugeland, J. Part 1 of ‘Truth and Rule Following’, in Having Thought, pp. 305–327 (up to, but not including, §10)

Kant Reading Group

In Michaelmas Term we will read the Transcendental Aesthetic of the Critique of Pure Reason. Since this is a short, but very dense text, we will supplement it with a few additional primary passages as well as selected secondary literature. Our focus will be on a careful analysis of Kant’s arguments. Topics to be discussed include the following: the distinction between intuitions and concepts; the notion of a pure intuition; Kant’s philosophy of geometry; and Transcendental Idealism.

Meetings are held in the Lodge Seminar Room, 3.30–5.00pm on Tuesdays. They begin with a short presentation and are followed by general discussion. All are most welcome. If you have any questions, please feel free to contact Thomas Land.

15 October  Tr. Aesthetic, §§1, 2 and 4 (focus on the first two Space Arguments and the first two Time Arguments)

22 October  Tr. Aesthetic, §§2 and 4 (focus on the last two Space Arguments and the last two Time Arguments)
Lanier Anderson, ‘The Wolffian Paradigm’

29 October  ‘The Discipline of Pure Reason in its Dogmatic Use’ (A712/B740–A738/B766)

5 November  Tr. Aesthetic, §3

12 November  Tr. Aesthetic, A26/B42–A30/B45 and §§6–8

26 November  Desmond Hogan, ‘How to Know Unknowable Things in Themselves’, Nous, 43:1 (2009), 49–63

3 December  TBC

Philosophy and History of Physics Reading Group

We meet on Tuesdays, 2.00–3.00pm in Seminar Room 1. Organised by Jeremy Butterfield, Hasok Chang and Nazim Bouatta.

This term we will be reading Richard Staley, Einstein’s Generation: The Origins of the Relativity Revolution (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2008). This book is available for purchase (in paperback); there will also be copies on reserve in the Whipple Library.
AD HOC

AD HOC is a history of chemistry reading group based in Cambridge and London. While our main focus is historical, we also consider the philosophical, sociological, public and educational dimensions of alchemy and chemistry. This term’s theme is ‘Early Modern Chemistry’.

The group meets several times per term, on Mondays, 5pm–6.30pm in Seminar Room 1. Readings are available from the Whipple Library, and also circulated via our mailing list. A parallel series of meetings is held in London. For details visit our website, www.hps.cam.ac.uk/adhoc.

Organised by Hasok Chang and Jenny Rampling.

Thursday 10 October (7pm):
‘Practically Making the Philosophers’ Stone: Recreating Alchemical Experiments’
Lecture by Jennifer Rampling (HPS, Cambridge), sponsored by the Royal Society of Chemistry.
Venue: Department of Chemistry, Lensfield Road.

21 October Anke Timmermann (Cambridge University Library)
Rhyming recipes and alchemy

11 November Stephen Clucas (Birkbeck, University of London)
John Dee and alchemy

2 December Simon Werrett (University College London)
Early modern pyrotechnics
Simon Werrett, Fireworks: Pyrotechnic Arts and Sciences in European History (Chicago, 2010), Introduction and Ch. 1 (“Perfecting the Pyrotechnique story”: The Ingenious Invention of Artificial Fireworks’), pp. 1–46.
Language groups

Latin Therapy

Latin Therapy is an informal reading group. All levels of Latin (including beginners) are very welcome. We meet every Friday in the Lodge Seminar Room from 4.00 to 5.30pm, to translate and discuss a text from the history of science, technology or medicine. If a primary source is giving you grief, we’d love to help you make sense of it over tea and biscuits! Thus we provide a free translation service for the Department, and a means for members to brush up their skills.

More information can be found at our website: www.hps.cam.ac.uk/latintherapy. To be added to the mailing list, or to suggest a text, please contact Seb Falk.

Greek Therapy

Greek Therapy meets every Wednesday during term time in the Lodge Seminar Room from 5.30 to 7pm.

We are an informal group for beginners and for experienced readers of Greek seeking to brush up their skills – all levels are welcome. Sessions usually involve a basic grammar session at the beginning followed by reading through a more advanced text (often, but not always, Plato); this term we will be reading Plato’s Critio. For more information or to be added to the mailing list, please email Liz Smith. Please note that there will be no session on Wednesday 30 October.
